Introduction

1. ASSOCIATION DESCRIPTION

The Canada Wood Group (CWG) is a coalition of Canadian industry trade associations which represents Canada's forest sector market development, market access and technical interests in offshore markets including Japan, China, South Korea, India, the United Kingdom, continental Europe and other countries. Through co-funded Emerging Market Opportunities (EMO), Forestry Innovation Investment Ltd. (FII) and industry funding, CWG provides infrastructure, market development and market access services on behalf of member Associations which include the Council of Forest Industries, SPF Group, BC Wood Specialties Group, Coast Forest Products Association, Quebec Wood Export Bureau, Forest Products Association of Canada, Maritime Lumber Bureau, Western Red Cedar Lumber Association and APA – Engineered Wood Association.

Funding for product development, technical, market access and marketing services is provided through activity-specific funding formulae, on a cost shared basis between Natural Resources Canada (EMO Program), Province of British Columbia (FII) and CWG members. CWG is subject to the terms and conditions of funding set out by its government funding partners, and on this basis, is required to undertake competitive processes – as appropriate to the services sought and availability of qualified service providers – for the procurement of consulting and research services both in-Canada and outside of the country. These competitive processes may include price quotes, multi-year Request for Qualifications or Request for Proposals processes, or – where suitable – the use of EMO or FII qualified supplier lists. Competitive processes will be undertaken where they offer a cost-effective means of selecting among multiple qualified service providers, or enhance the ability of CWG to document its contractor selection processes to government funders.

More information on the Canada Wood Group can be found at <http://www.canadawood.org>.

CWG is seeking suppliers with significant senior-level experience and qualifications in both the management and delivery of market access activities which may include wood product testing, research, technical support, technical submission development and foreign market acceptance services. CWG is also active in technology transfer in Asia and therefore requires from time to time contractors who can manage and deliver training programs targeted at builders, designers and regulatory officials. CWG member associations manage/deliver programs under the direction of industry steering committees with activities that include market research, media, tradeshow, missions and other promotional activities designed to expand markets for Canadian wood products. Specialists in marketing are required from time-to-time.

Suppliers selected through this Request for Qualifications process will make up a “Qualified List” for services that may include:

- Providing project management, project work planning, project budget management and project team selection services for CWG market access activities or market development activities.
- Developing, reviewing, advising on and contributing to market development and technical strategies for existing and emerging forest products markets;
- Undertaking specific product research, trials, testing or other product development services;
- Developing, delivering and / or presenting technical submissions to foreign regulatory agencies;
- Liaising with foreign government regulatory agencies responsible for forest product acceptance;
- Assisting CWG in the development of promotional materials to communicate the technical case for the maintained or enhanced use of wood products in international markets;
- Assisting CWG in the identification and analysis of opportunities to increase offshore exports.
- Conceiving and delivering training or providing expert mentoring services in emerging market situations.

2. Request for Qualifications

Through this Request for Qualifications, CANADA WOOD GROUP is seeking to establish a list of qualified firms and / or individuals with demonstrated senior-level experience – including specific experience with forest products and markets - from which CWG can select contractors or teams for project work.

Interested parties are asked to provide a detailed description of their qualifications, experience in similar projects, knowledge of TASK, their knowledge of forest product markets, and / or their experience in TASK OTHER. Applicants must provide a quotation of the hourly or daily rates proposed for themselves, team members, staff, subcontractors or other resources that would be involved in the work. Work may, at the discretion of CWG, be allocated on an hourly, daily or fixed-price project basis. Where work is allocated on a fixed-price project basis, further project proposals may be sought for large segments of work.

On the basis of its assessment of the qualifications received, CWG will establish a pre-qualified list of resources that it may draw from, as required. This pre-qualified list will remain in place for a minimum period of three (3) years, and may be extended for further one (1) year increments if, in the opinion of CWG, the pool of qualified service providers has not changed substantially enough to warrant another competitive process.

CWG may negotiate and enter into a contract or series of contracts with those applicants that best meet the needs of specific projects, and provide the best value. However, CWG reserves the right to refuse any or all submissions received, and does not guarantee that firms on the CWG qualified list will receive project work.
